Case examples

Equitable charge creates liquid funds

A developer required a facility to enable a swift acquisition when the right project came up. One security property was mortgaged on advantageous terms, making a refinance unsuitable, and as the lender would not allow a 2nd charge, we agreed a £2.5m facility secured against equity.

Facility to refinance a portfolio and settle CGT bill

An entrepreneur in the hospitality sector wished to refinance an expired bridging loan used to purchase a London pub with development potential. He also needed to settle a sizeable Capital Gains Tax bill from the sale of his previous venture. A circa £1.5m facility was swiftly agreed.

A complex facility for refinancing, purchase and development

A successful property development company wished to refinance existing loans, raise funds to complete the works on their current development and purchase their next project. Security for the circa £11m facility was a complex portfolio of properties, land, company assets and guarantees.

Family trusts required refinance and equity release

A development company required an investment loan secured against a number of let apartments in a previously completed project. The loan would refinance the existing loan and release equity to pay down other debts. Our experience of dealing with family trusts was vital in approving the circa £4.7m facility.

Refinance and equity release

A developer of luxury serviced retirement complexes wished to finance an expiring development loan and release equity from completed units in order to fund further site acquisitions. We quickly appraised their financial situation and agreed a £8m facility.

Investment, bridge and development solution

A family property investment business required a funding solution comprising a bridging loan, an investment loan and a development finance facility to complete a £5m refurbishment of mixed use properties it already owned. We agreed to provide a structured facility of £7.7m.
